Miss Reign made an excellent impresion. Her voice is powerful and richly sonorous. It is at its best in the simpler themes adaptable to her middle and upper registers. The voice, however, has not been consistently developed and time is required for her to sacquire the finish and maturity of the sessoned artist. Her method of breathing is not always of the best and her lower register is sometimes inclined to be harsh and metallic. But to offset these qualities, which may be remedied, the young singer has youth, charm and a natural voice of which much may be hoped fog in the future. A word of praise is due to relative, Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt 2d. It was an occasion of interest to society. Caswell, daughter of Mrs. John Caswell of this city and Prides Crossing, to Mr. Jasper Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin D. Morgan of Westbury, L. I. and for many years summer residents of Newport, had been broken. Mrs. Caswell declined to discuss the reasons for severing the romance aside from saying that the engagement had been broken by mutual agreement.

Mrs. Caswell and her daughter will sail for Europe on Sunday from this port by the Arabic with the intention of arasing two months in Italy.

The engagement, made known by Mrs. Caswell last Septernber at a tea in the Essex Country Club, Manchester, was of wide interest to society. At the time it was said no plans had been made for the wedding as Mr. Morgan, who had just recovered from a long and serious illness, would resume his engineering studies at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N. Y. He is a great-grandson of New York's war Governor.

Miss Caswell was introduced to society at a bail given at Huntington, L. I., June 25, 1918, by her aunt, Mrs. Albert G. Milbank, and she has been a prominent participant in social events at Ear Harbor and the North Shore During the war site served with the Red Cross and was a "Tarmerette" at the Pickman esta a "Tarmerette" at the Pickman e
